

Raise your V.O.I.C.E (Vocalize Our Inner Creative Expressions)

In this engaging workshop, students will explore vocal percussion and the art of live looping to co-create original music that utilizes the voice of each participant. Live looping is a new way to create music; it is the recording, layering and playback of music created in real time using loop station technology. Rup will teach the basics of beatboxing as well as Indian vocal percussion to give audiences an understanding of what he likes to call the "tongue drum". The group will create improvised, spontaneous compositions where listening to each other and utilizing each other's differences is the key.
